Imagine having everything you need - community centres, supermarkets, parks - just a few steps from home. It could make you healthier and build stronger bonds between you and your neighbours. This is the idea behind the 15-minute city. Here, people can get all the services they need within 15 minutes of home, on foot or by bike. This urban model is being developed in cities around the world.

Carlos Moreno has been a champion of 15-minute cities for years. Inspired by the need to fight climate change, he proposed to build more pavements and bicycle lanes to drastically reduce carbon emissions. As housing costs increase, he is also worried about people being displaced. As such, he is focused on inclusion and wants to create places that people of all backgrounds can call home

There is something fascinating about a sunken ship. It is as if the vessel was frozen (29) _____ time at the bottom of a body of water. Thanks to popular culture, we think there is a chance of finding some treasure down there.

In May 2020, the remnants of what was thought to be the PT-59 Navy vessel (30) _____ lifted off the bottom of the Harlem River in Manhattan. A sunken ship in a major city was news in itself. (31) _____ this boat had another interesting layer. John F. Kennedy commanded the PT-59 during World War Two, in 1943, when he (32) _____ in his mid-20s.

(33) _____ did the boat get there? After the war, it was operated as a charter boat from the 1950s to 1970s. It was painted white, its machine guns replaced by fishing rod holders and railings for anglers to lean (34) _____. Its powerful engines were replaced (35) _____ more economical twin diesels. (36) _____ in 1970, a school teacher, Redmond Burke, purchased the PT-59 for a thousand dollars and turned it (37) _____ a houseboat. He lived in it for a while. Unfortunately, it kept leaking and eventually the upkeep got to be too much (38) _____. Burke let it sink to the bottom of the river. It remained there for decades.

Each of the underlined words contains either a spelling or grammatical error. Write the correct word in each of the boxes. (12 marks)

The cherry blossoms, known in Japan as sakura, are well-known around the world for their radiant, delicate and transient beauty. However, they are more than simply beautiful trees. The sakura have powerful ties to Japan's history, culture and idantetee and is one of Japan's most iconic natural _____.

(40)

(41)

Adding to their magic and mystik, the sakura are usually in full bloom for around a week. On the diverse landscape of Japan's main islands, this magical moment can occur from (44)

(42)

March and early May. After the brif period of full bloom, the small, round shaped flowers start to flutter gracefully from their trees and the blossoms are said to be the most beautiful.

(46)

With many Japanese, the blooming of the cherry blossom trees represented human life, transience and nobleness. The Japanese chareesh the cherry blossoms trees during the limited flowering period. Many people hold 'flower watching' parties knows as hanami. You simply cannot travel to Japan in spring without apresniating the beauty of the sakura and experiencing a hanami party for myself!

(47)

Given the cultural significance of the sakura, there are countless events and festivals that are centered on the blooming of the cherry blossom.

For each of the questions 51 to 65, fill in each blank with a suitable word.

What is perseverance? Perseverance is grit, dedication and determination. It is the ability to (51) _____ doing something even though it seems hopeless. It means not giving up.

Perseverance is an important and positive character (52) _____ to have in your life. Students these days are (53) _____ how to persevere in school because it is not just necessary in school (54) _____ also in daily life.

Mistakes are necessary building (55) _____ of learning and creativity. Making mistakes are necessary to benefit one's life. Accepting your mistakes (56) _____ you learn and achieve more. Once you fail and try again, you might be able to taste (57) _____. We should embrace and celebrate mistakes (58) _____ we are unable to grow without them.

(59) _____ things are getting tough, you can get back up again and try your hardest to succeed. It may not seem easy but you will succeed if you do not give (60) _____. There is (61) _____ challenge too big that you cannot handle. If you feel as though you are (62) _____ to handle it, ask for help. There will always be someone who is able to (63) _____ you.

Once you learn how to persevere, you are in a better position to handle difficulties. (64) _____, perseverance must be practised from childhood so that the habit becomes (65) _____ and parcel of one's life. With that great asset, a man can walk easily on the hazardous road of his life's journey. Success will be his and only his.

For each of the questions 66 to 70, rewrite the given sentence(s) using the word(s) provided. Your answer must be in one sentence. The meaning of your sentence must be the same as the meaning of the given sentence(s). (10 marks)

On 13 May, exhausted and struggling to breathe, Lisa staggered into Camp 3. At 7162 metres, it was higher than she had ever climbed. However, the expedition was not going according to plan as she was struggling to scale Mount Everest. It had been her dream but it was slipping away quickly. Helping Lisa with her oxygen mask was the group's leader, Kami.

"I always try to make sure every client reaches the summit," says Kami. "But there is a line. 5
The moment I realise that any of my clients will not make it, I will abort the mission. Even from the outset, he saw that Lisa was struggling. Days earlier, she took 19 hours, twice the expected time, to trek from Base Camp to Camp 2. When Lisa finally arrived, Kami made the decision that she was not ready for the summit and had her flown back down.

Rejoining the group a few days later, things started well. However, by 6000 metres, Lisa was 10 already heavily reliant on supplementary oxygen, a resource normally reserved for altitudes of 7000 metres and above. By the time they arrived at Camp 3, Kami had made up his mind. The risk was too great and he ordered her to be taken back down the mountain to safety. Kami says, "There is always a risk of avalanche and above Camp 3, the path is steep and treacherous." He strongly believes that descent is always the best decision so that everyone is safe. 15

Towering 8850 metres above sea level, Mount Everest is the highest mountain in the world. Located on the Nepal-Tibet border, this global beacon of exploration lures hundreds of climbers every year. The death toll has been the highest in four years. Overcrowding, bad weather and a record number of permits being issued may all be contributing factors. Kami also believes it is an increase in the number of less experienced climbers that is making the problem worse. 20
He blames some tour companies for not educating the risks of climbing Mount Everest to novice climbers.

Many veteran climbers have also warned novice climbers with little or no training of the risk of attempting to scale huge peaks such as Everest. These climbers need to understand that climbing Everest is extremely risky. They need to stop believing just because they will be rescued if they get in trouble just because they are with a 'Sherpa guide'. Even the strongest Sherpa cannot lower an incapacitated person by themselves or expect extra oxygen to be delivered to 8400 metres at a moment's notice. 25

Any expedition to climb Mount Everest must be accompanied by a Sherpa. Mostly young men, Sherpa guides are not just the muscle behind any expedition, they are also expert navigators. 30 Enduring freezing temperatures, they help climbers to negotiate icefalls, avalanches and extreme altitude. From Camp 4 up to the summit, climbers will enter what is commonly known as the "death zone". Operating above 8,000 metres, climbers might develop altitude sickness. Relying on supplementary oxygen carried in bottles, climbers must also conserve enough oxygen supply for the return journey. "I keep checking everyone's oxygen levels, and in the event of extreme 35 weather, I make strategic decisions about whether we should ascend or descend to avoid any developing situations in the mountains," explains Kami.

Working as a mountain guide since 1992, last month Kami broke his own world record of successful ascents not just once, but twice. When asked about his achievements, Kami said humbly, "I treat every climb with the same sincerity as the first. Whenever a client is successful, 40 it makes my day. I believe breaking records is just a by-product."
