Leia was stuck at home because of bad weather. She deliberated over the (16)
options she had. She could do nothing but watch television. She knew that it was a waste of time and her elder sister, Rosie, would frown upon her decision.

Unlike her, Rosie was a go-getter. Like clockwork, Rosie would be up by six every morning to go for her run before she worked on her to-do lists.

Leia respected Rosie as she was steadfast in her belief that being responsible is the key to success. With that in mind, Leia forced herself to get up from the couch and do push-ups. Soon, she was sweating and felt refreshed instantly. After that, Leia started working on her project which was due next week.

Visit the Expo City this June and learn more about endangered animals*!

We are constantly being hunted and killed by mankind. Our natural habitats are also being destroyed at an alarming rate. Our numbers have declined significantly over the years! Please do your part to ensure our survival!

Come join us at the Expo City with your family, friends and relatives during the June holidays. We have an array of activities to raise awareness about the threats that endangered animals are facing.

* Examples of endangered animals include the rhinoceros, orangutan, gorilla and panda.

10 BOOK VOUCHERS AND 10 MOBILE PHONES TO BE WON!

POSTER DESIGN COMPETITION

The one and only on-the-spot poster design competition in Singapore! This competition is open to all Primary and Secondary school pupils. Registration for this competition is absolutely free!

To participate, simply register in person with your student pass at the entrance of Expo Hall 2 on 24 June from 9 a.m. onwards. Find a spot anywhere in Expo Hall 2 and start working on your poster that focuses on the plight of any endangered animal.

Submission of completed posters can be done any time from 12 noon to 5 p.m.. Remember to bring your own drawing pencils and colouring materials as we will only be providing participants with a piece of A3 drawing paper.

Results will be announced on the same day at 6 p.m..
Winners must be present to collect their prizes.
Please note that the judges' decision is final.
No further correspondence will be entertained.

ART EXHIBITION

We have brought the most famous works of renowned local artist, Andy Chua, to the Expo City especially for you. From 1 to 20 June, feast your eyes on amazing paintings of endangered animals at Expo Hall 1. This is a visual treat not to be missed!

Admission Ticket Prices (tickets can only be purchased at the entrance of Expo Hall 1):

Adult	:	$20
Child under 6	:	$5

Small pox was a terrible disease. You would _____ high fever, sore throat, headaches, body aches and difficulty breathing. In addition, rashes filled with pus would be all over your body. Even _____ the rashes dry out and start falling (30)
(29)
off, the scars remained.

_____ a small pox epidemic in England in 1744, a farmer, Benjamin (31)
Jester, decided to scratch some pus from the cowpox sores into the skin of his wife and sons. Surprisingly, none of _____ contracted smallpox.
(32)

Many years later, Edward Jenner, _____ doctor working in the town of (33)
Berkeley, decided to try the same approach after gathering evidence from farmers and milkmaids. _____ Benjamin did not know the science underlying the discovery, (34)
he had actually created the smallpox vaccine. He did not seek to make money from his vaccine as he wanted _____ people to get vaccinated. Soon, small pox (35)
vaccination was a common practice _____ the world and small pox was (36)
eradicated in 1979. _____ innovation by Jester and Jenner changed the world (37)
and saved millions of lives. What we _____ learn from this is not to dismiss (38)
bizarre innovations as useless!

Dear Grandpa,

I never thought that we would have to say goodbye so soon. For so long, I have been living in my own bliss world, thinking no matter how hard things become, they will outimately get better with you around. I simply could not wrap my head on the idea that I will be persueing my studies in England for the next four years and how much I will miss you.

(40)

(42)

(43)

My most vivid memories of you is how your eyebrows would become knitted

(44)

together whenever you narrated your stories of survieval during the Japanese saying, "The war brought about a generation capable of overcome all odds." Indeed, forced to drop off of school during the war, you worked doublely hard to make up for the lost years and earned yourself a skalership.

(46)

(47)

(49)

(50)

You have taught me rizeglijence and hard work, and I will honour you by doing well in school too. I love you, Grandpa.

Always yours,

Fill in each blank with a suitable word.

(15 marks)

All of us have our moments when we become angry with someone. _____ our fit of anger, we might _____ our patience and hurt someone we care about with our words or actions. Even if it is unintentional, the best course of _____ is to apologise. However, making an apology is often _____ said than done. Thankfully, it can be learned.

First of all, the apology _____ be sincere. A half-hearted one could do more damage than none at _____. To show sincerity, you need to take responsibility _____ your actions. Find an appropriate time to explain to the other person exactly what happened and how _____ you regret it.

After you have said your piece, give that person a chance to speak _____ interrupting. You might hear unpleasant things said about you _____ of frustration and be tempted to defend _____, but what you might not know _____ that this is part of the healing process – your active listening recognises the hurt that person is experiencing. It brings about relief and makes it easier for that person to forgive you.

Lastly, you offer to make amends. Actions _____ louder than words so if you have damaged someone's property, have it _____ or replaced.

Even though an effective and sincere apology can often strengthen a relationship, forgiveness may not necessarily come immediately. You could liken the forgiveness journey _____ how a bruise heals – it could take days or even years. What you can do is to keep your heart open for reconciliation one day.

Section I – Comprehension

Read this passage and answer questions 71 to 80.

(20 marks)

Kareem sighed as he counted his money again. He was still short of fifty dollars to buy the latest Speedster X bike. In order to save his pocket money to replace the bicycle he had outgrown, he had been packing sandwiches to school the last three months. While his leaner frame did not bother his parents, a neighbour took pity on him by paying him ten dollars each time he washed her car. And he saved every bit of it.	1 5
"So I ran into Aunty Kim, our neighbour who just moved in next door," Mother's voice interjected his thoughts. "Her son, Shawn, will cycle to school starting next week. Could you show him the shortcut to school later? It's a Saturday anyway!"
Kareem groaned. He knew his resistance was futile as Mother had probably already volunteered his service to Aunty Kim.	10
"Oh, and you've got mail. It's probably from Grandma. Open it."
Kareem's grandmother lived abroad but she would send him spontaneous photos and cards. He ripped the envelope open and pulled out a greeting card. A fifty-dollar note slipped out. He could not believe this windfall before his eyes!
"Did you know your name means 'generous' in Arabic?" Mother prompted. "Maybe that money could bring some happiness to another family."	15
Kareem stuffed the note into his pocket and snorted, "I have been saving so hard all this while. I deserve this money more than anyone."
At 2 p.m., Kareem met Shawn under their block as arranged by their mothers. The sooner he finished this errand, the sooner he could go to the bike shop. While the boys were cycling, a squirrel appeared behind a parked car and darted across the road so suddenly that the boys collided with each other and knocked down some recycling bins.	20
"Urgh!" Kareem grunted, "I forgot to warn you about the squirrel population here." He lifted his bike up while Shawn put the bins back.
Crash! Kareem and Shawn whipped their heads around. A car screeched to a halt where Shawn's bike had been and an angry man threw open his car door.	25
"You hit my bike!" Shawn yelled, running to pick up the mess of twisted bike parts.
"Blame yourself!" the man retorted, examining the front of his car. "You left your bike in the middle of the road. You should be glad my car is not damaged!" Without another word, he jumped into his car and sped off.	30
"Oh no! I was planning to help my parents save some money by riding to school daily," Shawn said anxiously.
"Whatever happened was not my fault. I'm buying Speedster X anyway," thought Kareem, though an uneasy sadness tugged at his throat as he watched Shawn push the wreckage home in silence.	35

Kareem made a beeline for his dream bike once he stepped into the bike shop. As he walked down the aisle, he noticed some older models under a big red sign that read 'Mega Clearance Sale'. A shiver ran down his spine as the image of Shawn and his wrecked bike flashed before him. He did a quick mental calculation and the sum was right: a Speedster X or two of the others.	40
"Hi," Kareem appeared at Shawn's door the next morning. "Want to ride together?" Shawn fumed at the ridiculous question but before he could say anything, Kareem took a stride to the side, revealing two shiny identical bikes along the corridor. "What... No, it couldn't be..." Shawn's eyes grew as wide as saucers. Mother who had witnessed the scene from the corridor walked up to Kareem and nudged him playfully, "Your name definitely suits you."	45
