GPS NEWSLETTER

ISSUE NO. 1 TERM 1,2021

Find out what's happening at Neptune Primary School

Before we know it, the action-packed Term 1 has come to an end! The pupil reporters at Neptune Primary School (NPS) have put together this termly newsletter for parents and friends of NPS. In this issue, let's relook at some of the exciting events in Term 1.

Editor of Newsletter: Lee Xin Yu (Primary 6A)

GREAT BUDDY PROGRAMME

The first day of school was an exciting day for our Primary 1 pupils. They were excited to start their journey in a totally new school environment with unfamiliar teachers and classmates.

Primary 3 buddies took care of the Primary 1 pupils during recess. This helped to put the minds of the parents of the new Primary 1 pupils at ease. The buddies helped them to buy food, showed them different areas around school and taught them how to find their way around the school. "I enjoyed meeting my 'little friend' and sharing with him everything about the school." remarked Farhan, one of the buddies.

They shared many positive experiences during the four weeks together. On the last day, some of the Primary 3 pupils received thank-you cards from their younger buddies. It was indeed a good learning experience for the Primary 3 pupils as they were able to put into action the school values of Graciousness and Charity.

Reporter: David Bala (Primary 6G)

SPORTS DAY

Sports Day was held on 26 February at Greenview Stadium. The Primary 4 to 6 pupils took part in the event and they displayed basic movement and manipulative skills which they had learnt during PE lessons. They completed their obstacle relays with great teamwork, displaying the school value of Collaboration.

The parents had a first-hand experience with the same movement and manipulative skills when they participated in the Parent-Child Race. They were as enthusiastic as their children! The efforts of both the parents and pupils paid off as they contributed points to the four Houses.

At the end of the event, Blue House won with a total of 200 points. Although the Primary 1 to 3 pupils were not involved in the sports events, the day ended on a high note with everyone dancing to the tune of "Colours of My Life" at the Mass Workout.

One of the parents, Mr Bala Krishnan, said, "I am proud to see my child displaying a core school value: collaboration! It's also a good bonding event for my child and me!"

Reporter: Chen Jia Le (Primary 5C)

CULTURAL PARADE 2021

On 6 March, the school took 100 Primary 5 pupils to watch the annual Cultural Parade held at Amber Street. The parade featured cultural performances by various ethnic groups in Singapore. Despite the gloomy weather, the pupils were enthusiastic and full of energy when they reported to school at 5 p.m. that day. From school, the pupils took chartered buses to the venue. The rain came the moment the pupils reached the parade venue. However, it did not dampen their spirits as they were prepared with ponchos and umbrellas. It was uncomfortable to watch the show in the rain. Fortunately, the skies cleared after half an hour, allowing the pupils to have an enjoyable time at the parade.

Bob was a small-built child who prefers indoor to outdoor activities. He is mild-mannered and mostly kept to himself. He was very much a loner. He felt miserable in class as his classmates were unkind to him.

"Please stop calling me names! " Bob pleaded with his classmates.

In the beginning of semester 2, Bob had a new classmate, Alex, who had just returned to Singapore. Alex was assigned a seat next to Bob. To his surprise, within weeks, he became good friends with Alex even though they were poles apart in personality. Alex was popular, outspoken, flamboyant and artistic.

"Alex was all that I thought I wanted to be," Bob muttered under his breath. He looked up to Alex and idolised him. He found himself trying to be more like Alex. He began listening to the music Alex listened to, carrying identical haversacks and having similar haircut. He also quit reading and started playing the online games that Alex played.

When Alex introduced Bob to his group of 'cool' friends, Bob looked down at his feet and stretched out his clammy hands. As he shook their hands, he told himself that he would try all means to be part of the group. He would tag along to football games and join the art club after school so he could spend more time hanging out with them.

Bob followed them around, laughing when they told jokes, agreeing when they had opinions — most enthusiastically at the ones he disagreed with. He did not dare to differ in opinions as he would not want them to think badly of him. This continued for several months. At last, Bob felt jubilant and relieved that he had finally fitted in.

One day, Bob overheard Alex and his cool friends talking.

"He's such a loser," one boy commented.

"He just follows you around trying to be you. He copies you; he does not have a personality of his own!" another boy exclaimed.

Alex laughed, to make matters worse, he added, "I wish he would leave me alone. He thinks we are best friends. Get a life!"

Bob stood rooted to the ground and could not believe his ears. Bob was trembling and sobbing uncontrollably when he got home. He felt alone and betrayed. He told his mother, who was his pillar of strength, about the incident. She would always be there for him whenever he felt down. Her heart went out to him and she hugged him tightly.

His mother said, "Just be yourself and people will like you for who you are." Bob had heard it a million times before. He never truly understood what it really meant but this time, he got it. Bob pulled himself together and stopped his crying immediately.

In school, the boys noticed the changes in Bob. He bought a new schoolbag and chose a haircut which he liked. He dropped his art class and joined the drama club. He made new friends who liked him for who he was. He "never again just followed the crowd." He rediscovered who he was and in the years that followed, Bob was in every drama performances, even landing a few lead roles.

Through the heart-breaking lesson, Bob had discovered the person he was going to be. Bob recounted, "Despite the pain I felt that day, it was a gift my friends had given me. They opened my eyes. The things that they said about me were true. I was just following, trying desperately to fit in. If I had not been given the chance to realise it, I might have been too concerned with "fitting in" to experience some of the best times of my life."
